

Daniel Rivers, born in Muswellbrook in 1993, is an artist and graduate architect who relocated to Dharawal Country, Thirroul, after completing his Master of Architecture. Rivers' work, both in art and architecture, embodies a profound appreciation for the interplay between the individual and the landscape. Through his art, Rivers seeks to capture the essence of Australian landscapes and the people who inhabit them.

Rivers' artistic style is characterised by his use of soft pastels and loose strokes of paint, enabling him to depict both the suburban and natural environments of Australia. His experimentation with various mediums and colours results in expressive and intricately detailed drawings and paintings. Frequently sketching, Rivers observes and captures fleeting moments that foster a deeper connection with the places and people he paints.
